The Brandolini di Adda family are Venetian members of the international banking mafia currently headed up by Countess Christiana Brandolini di Adda, Count Brandino Brandolini di Adda II, Count Tiberto Ruy Brandolini di Adda, Countess Georgina Brandolini di Adda, Count Guido Brandolini di Adda, Count Marcantonio Brandolini di Adda, Countess Cornelia Brandolini di Adda, and Countess Bianca Brandolini di Adda. The House of di Adda originated in Milan and merged family lines with the Borromeo and Brandolini families and also ruled as Counts of the Holy Roman Empire. The Brandolini d'Adda family is extremely evil and murderous. The Brandolinis are a related branch of the Aldobrandini family of Florence and Rome. Olimpia Aldobrandini is married to the French Baron David Rene de Rothschild and he is the Chairman of N M Rothschild & Sons and Rothschild Continuation Holdings with his son Baron Alexandre Guy Francesco de Rothschild as a top executive. Count Giudo Brandolini works for the Rothschild Asset Management division and also worked for Chrysler Group. Chrysler Group is a subsidiary of Fiat which was founded and is partly owned by the Agnelli family. Countess Cristiana Brandolini di Adda's father was Edoardo Agnelli. Countess Bianco Brandolini di Adda dated her cousin Lapo Elkann who works for Fiat and he has been caught by police twice with male transsexual prostitutes. Lapo's other cousin Andrea Agnelli is worth over 13 billion and is the Chairman of Juventus an Italian soccer club and board member of Fiat and the family's holding company Exor. Andrea Agnelli works with the mafia and was fined and banned for enabling mobsters to sell his tickets at high mark ups. Andrea Agnelli has been accused of being an associate of the Ndrangheta boss Rocco Dominello. Countess Marie Brandolini di Adda was the daughter of the French Baroness Beatrice de Rothschild and Marie married into the Brandolini di Adda family of Venice with Count Brandino II as her son.

The French Rothschild family are employed as Court Factors for the Roman Curia and act as middle men money handlers for Black Nobility like the Aldobrandini family. The Black Nobility funnel their profits from organized crime through Rothschild banking firms which are used for making criminal pay offs, bribes, and various forms of criminal financing usually disguised as loans. The town of Lodi, California was named after Lodi, Lombardy. The d'Adda family originated from Milan, Lombardy. Lodi, California has a large population of northern Italians which own vineyards like the Carano family which own casinos as well as Ferrari-Carano vineyard. The Mondavi family also own a winery in Lodi, California and they founded Opus One Winery with Baroness Philippe de Rothschild and her children are Camille Sereys de Rothschild, Philippe Sereys de Rothschild, and Julien de Beaumarchais de Rothschild. Michael Mondavi, Rob Mondavi Jr and Peter Mondavi are members of this family today. The Rothschilds are titled the "guardians of the papal treasure." Countess Cornelia Brandolini di Adda can be seen associating with Baron Eric de Rothschild. Cornelius Brandi is the Executive Chairman of CMS an international tax law firm located in Switzerland and he is a German-Swiss relative of the Brandolini family. Albrecht Brandi was a German Nazi U-boat commander. Albrecht's father Ernst Brandi was a Nazi businessman and member of the Nazi's Secret Meeting of February, 20 1933. Cornelius Brandi advises criminal bankers on loopholes, evading taxation, and concealing criminal pay offs. Cornelius Brandi was friends with Antonio Purini the former Italian ambassador to Germany. Antonio Purini was friends with Prince Camillo Aldobrandini the uncle of Princess Olimpia Aldobrandini-Rothschild. The Brandolinis and di Adda families are of the noble rank of counts. Counts are accountants and they manage wealth, assets, and investments for royalty and sovereign princes. The name Adda is like the word adder which is a name for a viper. Countess Bianco Brandolini di Adda frequently wears clothes and jewelry with vipers and boas on them. Snakes are considered calculating and they are cold blooded. Bankers are calculating.
